Up in the sky, birds fly by.
Where are the birds going?

Where Bluebirds Go

Some birds migrate to other places for part of the year. Many migrate before winter in order to survive.

This bird migrates for fruit in winter.

It returns for worms and insects in spring.

This bird migrates in a V-shaped flock.

This bird migrates at night and rests during the day.

This bird migrates when the air grows too cold.

This bird often migrates alone.

This bird migrates in a flock of thousands.

This bird migrates across the water without stopping.

European robin

Some birds fly down
a mountain to migrate.
Some birds fly thousands
of miles to migrate.
Wherever these birds go,
they'll always come back.
