The spider needs to build a new web.

The web will help her catch her food.

She chooses a branch
to start on.

She spins out a thread
of sticky silk.

She sticks the silk to the branch below.
She sticks more silk threads
between the two branches.

She crawls around and around, spinning silk.
She makes many circles to make the web strong.

Soon, her web is done.
The spider waits quietly.

A fly gets stuck in the threads of the web.

The spider creeps toward the fly.

The spider bites the fly.

She wraps the fly in silk.

The spider's bite changes the fly's body into goo. When the spider is hungry, she drinks the goo!
